Constructor is a Business Journal for Contractors

Editorial Mission

Constructor is a business journal published six times a year that offers readers in-depth information about the business of commercial contracting and the management of projects and companies. Articles explore critical industry trends and issues in areas such as human resources, legalities, safety, training and new products. Constructor is a key resource that contractors use to achieve business success and keep up with changes in the dynamic commercial construction marketplace.

Philosophy

Constructor fulfills its role as one of the leading association publications in the commercial construction industry through in-depth, honest and careful reporting of information that impacts the business lives of its readers. The publication and its web site strive to connect readers one another to bring the industry and the broader world of business to enhance their growth and success as business leaders.
